The IET Wiring Regulations (BS7671) is the national standard to which all domestic and industrial wiring must conform. A new edition of the Wiring regulations, the 17th edition was published in Jan 2008. The latest edition came into force on the 1st July 2008 and it contains substantial changes to align with European documents. The speaker will cover aspects of the new regulations and issues that have become apparent since publication. The talk will be of interest to all those concerned with the design, installation, amend maintenance of electric wiring in buildings.

Speaker William Davies NIEIC
